

Association for Hospital Medical Education

Presents a new teleconference topic:

Addressing Practice-Based Learning and Systems-Based Practice in Residency Training by Building a Quality and Safety Curriculum for Residents

A price-conscious, value-packed audio conference appropriate for GME, CME, Quality Improvement, and Patient Safety leaders and staff.

Wednesday, January 19, 2011 ~ 2:00-3:00 p.m. ET

Objectives:

At the end of this teleconference, the learner should be able to...

1. Discuss ways that faculty can successfully establish an innovative curricula to foster training in PBL and SBP core competencies.
2. Describe one academic medical center's innovative approach to fostering a culture of quality and patient safety among residents.

Speakers:

Dave Davis, MD, CCFP, FCFP, FRCPC(hon) is Senior Director, Continuing Education and Performance Improvement at the Association of American Medical Colleges, Adjunct Professor in the Department of Health Policy, Management & Evaluation, and Department of Family and Community Medicine at the University of Toronto. Currently the AAMC's lead for continuing healthcare education and improvement, Dr. Davis was a family physician in Ontario, Canada for nearly forty years. For much of that time, he was active in 'CME' as: chairman of an all-staff inter-professional CE program at a community hospital; director of Continuing Medical Education and subsequently chair of continuing education at McMaster University's Faculty of Health Sciences; associate dean, continuing education, and founding director of the Knowledge Translation Program in the Faculty of Medicine, University of Toronto; and chairman of Ontario's Guidelines Advisory Committee. Dr. Davis has also developed a comprehensive competency assessment program for the provincial licensing body, and helped launch a center for faculty development and a Mini-Med School at the University of Toronto. Emphasizing a rigorous, outcomes-based focus on CME, he has acted as PI, Co-PI or investigator on grants totaling several million dollars.

Robert B. Baron M.D., M.S., is Professor of Medicine, Vice Chief, Division of General Internal Medicine, Associate Dean for Graduate and Continuing Medical Education, and Designated Institutional Official (DIO) at the University of California, San Francisco (UCSF). A member of the UCSF faculty since 1981, Dr. Baron directed the UCSF Primary Care Internal Medicine Residency from 1989 until 2006. In this role, he designed and implemented innovations in residency education including curricula to teach system-based care, quality improvement, and interprofessional care. As Associate Dean for Continuing Medical Education, Dr. Baron personally develops and chairs six CME courses each year focused on updating skills in primary care practice. Dr. Baron also serves as Associate Dean for GME and DIO. In this position he oversees UCSF's 80 accredited residency and fellowship training programs, 50 non-ACGME fellowship programs and over 1,300 trainees. Dr. Baron focuses his scholarship on issues in graduate and continuing medical education and on obesity and related topics in nutrition, preventive medicine, and management of chronic disease.
